Our processes are designed to produce accurate and honest letters.

Proprietary information removed.

Petitioners must meet our client acceptance criteria.

We have strict requirements that must be met to provide a letter. Petitioners must meet the following criteria for all EB-1 and EB-2 NIW visas:

- They must attest that all information is truthful and that an attorney has or will review their petition for accuracy (read more³). We believe that this provides greater assurance of the authenticity and accuracy of client documentation.
- Documentation for all qualifications must be provided. The source of information is referenced within each letter. In general, we will receive the same documents as the USCIS, excluding any letters provided by the attorney(s).
- We and the expert(s) must believe that a petitioner will add value to the U.S. and has a strong case. While subjective, we routinely reject clients who objectively meet a criterion but subjectively appear limited in their capacities.

In addition to the above inclusion criteria, a petitioner may be rejected as a client prior to or after payment.

- ProfVal routinely rejects potential petitioners who we perceive to be unqualified, even if they have an attorney.
- Experts are encouraged to reject petitioners that we have accepted for any reason.

Our role & limitations

We are an independent organization separate from petitioner and attorneys. As the intermediary with whom experts communicate and receive compensation from (compensation is not contingent on favorability of opinion), we seek to facilitate honest assessments based on the information provided to us. Petitioners attest to the authenticity of their documents and this evaluation assumes that petitioners are truthful. As experts are discipline experts, we provide education and clarification on the areas that they are asked to assess so that their evaluations focus on appropriate areas.

No one at ProfVal, LLC is an immigration attorney. We take efforts to prevent errors, but this is a human process and it is possible that errors will be made unintentionally. We are professionals who are committed to providing honest, accurate, and fair services to persons and entities. We welcome comments from the USCIS and would particularly appreciate suggestions from the USCIS that may help us to ensure that we provide evaluations with the highest levels of quality and integrity (admin@profval.com).
